1998-99 BUDGET

PRINCIPLES & STRATEGIC PARAMETERS

- Keep the promises made to public in library levy.
- Fund what '96 capital bond won't (as result of decision to renovate all branches).
- Be flexible and responsive throughout the five year levy.
  - Think of initiatives, not only long-term programs.
- Think laterally rather than hierarchically.
- Achieve a consistent standard of excellent reference service at Central and branches.
  - Examine the role of the Library Assistant.
- Develop staff capacity, particularly in mid-management.
- Be aware of the career path theme and increase the number of available options.
- Look for ways to further RESULTS. Examples:
  - "Name" positions in a way that expresses flexibility, adaptability.
  - Provide RESULTS grants for staff.

MEMORANDUM

TO: All Agencies

FROM: Ginnie Cooper, Director of Libraries Ginnie

DATE: April 30, 1998

SUBJECT: More books, more hours, better libraries!

Here's information about the really big change that's coming up for all of us:
a 60 percent increase in hours that begins in July!

During the next year, we'll be able to offer our patrons:

- Sunday hours at all branch libraries
- More – and more uniform – hours
- More books – meaning shorter reserve times, more books for kids doing homework, new reference materials, new paperbacks and lots more.
- Remodeled and renovated branch libraries – with new roofs, new plumbing, energy-efficient lighting, new furniture and best of all – more PCs with Internet access.

As you already know, we have much to do as we get ready to open the extra hours. We also have much to celebrate. Watch for a variation of the "More books, more hours, better libraries" graphic on a variety of public information materials that will be released at strategically planned times as well as information on a systemwide special event to mark July 12, the first Sunday all libraries are open.

New series of storytimes for kids begins in June

Storytimes are a good way to introduce young people to the library. At library storytimes, stories, songs and seasonal crafts are presented to a small group by a youth librarian who can also answer questions about books, library programs and reading in general. Family storytimes are for ages 6 years and younger and younger children must be accompanied by an adult. Toddler storytimes are for ages 18-36 months with adult (except at libraries with Tiny Tots programs) and preschool storytimes are for ages 3-6 years.

For more information about storytimes or other events, check the library's web site (www.multnomah.lib.or.us/lib/) from your home computer or the next time you visit the library.
