General Information

1. What action are you requesting from the Board?

Approval of an NOI to submit an application to the US Department of Justice/Bureau of Justice Assistance by providing resources to states, units of local government, and federally recognized Indian tribes to develop and implement more effective and evidence-based probation and parole practices that effectively address individuals' needs and reduce recidivism.. The announcement was released on January 27, 2015 with a submission deadline of March 24, 2015.

2. Please provide sufficient background information for the Board and the public to understand this issue. Please note which Program Offer this action affects and how it impacts the results.

In 2002 BJS found that the re-arrest rate, re-conviction rate, and return to prison rate were highest among the 18-24 population. If that young adult is African American it increases his chance of being sent to prison by 15 percent. Research suggests that young adults have different psychological and social differences and some states have even passed laws recognizing this population as a special category. We know that there are major changes in the brain and that their intensity of emotion and risk taking is increased. Best practices suggest that this group, needs additional support, mentors, and coordinated and comprehensive services to help them navigate this transition.

In an effort to reduce recidivism and provide comprehensive services, the Department of Community Justice (DCJ) intends to target individuals who are 18-25 years of age, high risk offenders who have committed a measure 11 crime and/or are coming out of prison or jail.

The intent of this funding is to provide wrap around services, increased coordination of treatment, and strengthen service delivery to this population. Staff will receive training in three of these areas: Trauma informed practices, the adolescent brain, and supervising clients in a culturally responsive way. They will receive booster training and mentoring and coaching in order to develop appropriate responses to this population. DCJ will also focus on coaching and mentoring staff to operationalize skills in the use of interventions.

3. Explain the fiscal impact (current year and ongoing).

If awarded, we anticipate funding for up to $750,000 over 36 months starting October 1, 2015.

4. Explain any legal and/or policy issues involved.

N/A

5. Explain any citizen and/or other government participation that has or will take place.

We will have a third party evaluate the project to determine success.
