Public Testimony
Multnomah County Board of Commissioners Meeting
September 22, 2016
Agenda Item # R.6

My name is Robert Wright. I am a Portland native, now retired and living in Downtown Portland.

I strongly encourage that the long-unused Wapato Corrections Facility be included in A Home for Everyone Safety off the Streets Action Plan and its Emergency Shelter Strategies.

From its inception, the declared State of Emergency on Housing and Homelessness still exists in fact. Correctly, millions of investment dollars are being planned to improve the outcomes of those experiencing homelessness in Multnomah County. Wapato should be included in the investment strategies, greatly expanding site-based Safety off the Streets options. With the capacity for over 500 beds, Wapato fits with plans to expand capacity and certainly meets shelter criteria. Beyond being warm, dry and safe, the Wapato facility has the potential to become much more than an overnight shelter: clean toilets, showers, kitchen, laundry, and office space for shelter administration and on-site mobile services. Transportation can be provided, but back-and-forth trips to downtown Portland would be infrequent with social services conveniently available on-site, and no requirement to vacate the shelter every morning.

A Wapato Transition Shelter would be a temporary first step towards placement into permanent housing. This would be directly in line with the plans of the Joint Office of Homeless Services. Having to live on the street, or in a car, for weeks and months, waiting for housing, is unacceptable, especially with Wapato just sitting there, dormant.

Given its history, the conversion and use of Wapato is administratively and legally complex, but morally simple. Considering the ongoing homeless State of Emergency, these hurdles can be overcome using the resources, efforts and experience of the A Home for Everyone public-private partnership. There are many charitable organizations in the county that are willing to help, a real synergy focused on helping the homeless.

Keeping the expensive Wapato facility in mothballs is immoral. Who could walk up to a homeless person sleeping on hard concrete under a bridge on a cold winter night and say, "Sorry, our shelters are full. Please be patient while we figure out how you can sleep in a new, safe, heated building with beds and showers. This shouldn't take more than a few months or years."

Thank you.

September 21, 2016

Chair Kafoury and Members of the Multnomah County Commission:

I am sorry I cannot be with you this morning to thank you directly on behalf of Human Solutions for your support and commitment to meeting the needs of individuals and families experiencing homelessness in Multnomah County. You have collectively and individually demonstrated tremendous leadership by acting promptly and decisively to invest in the expansion of our system of shelters and services that provide immediate safety off the streets for thousands of people experiencing homelessness in our community. By supporting the opening of the Human Solutions Family Center in 2016, the Board created the first year-round, 24/7 no-turnaway shelter for families in Multnomah County – thereby ensuring a safe place for every child in our County to sleep every night of the year. You are dedicating significant resources this year to opening new shelter beds - ensuring that our most vulnerable can come in from the elements and find safety and security. And quietly, you have invested in a system of services and housing assistance that work behind the scenes to assist hundreds of victims of our local housing crisis to escape the streets and avoid shelter by moving rapidly into housing with short-term rental and financial assistance. Our plan and collective commitment to ending homelessness is working, albeit slowly and against a backdrop of an unprecedented crisis in housing affordability. So once again, on behalf of the Board, staff and clients of Human Solutions, thank you.

As you consider the report and testimony this morning, despite the excellent work and results of our investments to date, I expect you will all be thinking of how to best meet the still unmet need. Our existing shelters are full, our rent assistance and programs oversubscribed, our housing market continues to overheat beyond our reach and we all see daily that many of our neighbors continue to make the streets, sidewalks, parks and public land their homes for lack of a better alternative. Like many who have worked on this issue for years, I share your desire to act quickly and decisively to try to meet the unmet need and to simply do something. With limited resources, what is the best action to take to address this crisis of our humanity?

I have no magic bullet or easy answer. If I had one, you would have already been doing it – as your actions demonstrate that you share my commitment to end homelessness. Instead, I offer a few key points as testimony on how to deliberate next steps and how you might invest new dollars:

- Invest new funding first into moving people quickly out of shelter or directly off the streets into permanent housing. New housing investments can do double duty – they end the homelessness of the person(s) served in a permanent way and they simultaneously free up existing, paid-for shelter capacity for the next household in need.
- Invest more heavily into a separate and intentional strategy to create permanently supportive housing for the highest needs households who experience homelessness chronically and repeatedly. Only when communities intentionally allocate funding for the capital, operating and service costs needed for the highest needs households, does this type of permanent
