TESTIMONY for 350PDX Divestment Resolutions at City of Portland and Mult Co.

- My name is Daniela Brod and I am a resident of Portland and Multnomah County. I am also a volunteer with the Citizens' Climate Lobby. We are a non-partisan group of over 7500 volunteers spread across the nation with 288 active chapters. We are the national equivalent to the organization, Oregon Climate.
- I am here to applaud your leadership in taking a position against fossil fuel investment. I recognize that it is not easy to think that investment decisions at the city and county level in Oregon could make a difference. Nor is it easy to forego the investment returns that fossil fuel equities promise in this time of big profit when you are charged with dealing with huge social and infrastructure needs and squeezed government budgets.
- I am also here to emphasize the connection between 350PDX, Citizens' Climate Lobby, and Oregon Climate. We are organizations founded by people who see urgency in our situation and are focused on solving our climate crisis in the most equitable and expedient manner. Bill McKibbin, founder of 350.org understands the power of people to unleash civic movements that demand change. Our founder, Marshall Saunders, understands the need for national legislation and the non-partisan mindset that will be required to get there. Oregon Climate is at the State level, working on Cap and Dividend Carbon Pricing legislation with lawmakers in Salem.
- I can not overemphasize how important a step divestment from fossil fuels is to turning off dangerous polluting energy....But to fully turn on the renewable energy revolution, leaders at the national level must take the very important next step...and put a nation-wide price on carbon pollution.
- I am here to ask that you be open to discussing and supporting efforts in the near future to price carbon at the National level. State efforts to do so may be on a faster track, but their main purpose is to show that carbon pricing is possible and to serve as a model for national legislation. To avert climate catastrophe, we collectively need to find a way to cut our current carbon emission levels by 80% in less than 35 years. Carbon Pricing is the only tool capable of unleashing the power of the market with fair results. To be bi-partisan, the fee needs to be "revenue neutral", not growing government. To be equitable, it needs to be allocated directly to people who will be feeling the impact of increased energy costs.
- I ask that you remain engaged in this discourse about climate change solutions and continue your leadership. We look forward to talking with you soon about what you can do to help our efforts at the State and National levels.
- Thank you.
