Background Information

“Rural reserve” means land reserved to provide long-term protection for agriculture, forestry or important natural landscape features that limit urban development or help define appropriate natural boundaries of urbanization, including plant, fish and wildlife habitat, steep slopes and floodplains. Such land may not be included within an urban growth boundary for a period of 40 to 50 years. ORS 195.137(1), 195.141(2)(c).

“Urban reserve” means lands outside an urban growth boundary that will provide for future expansion over a long-term period and the cost-effective provision of public facilities and services within the area when the lands are included within the urban growth boundary. Urban reserves must be planned to accommodate long-term population and employment growth. ORS 195.137(2), 195.144(4).
