General Information

1. What action are you requesting from the Board?

Multnomah County Department of County Human Services, Aging, Disability and Veterans Services Division requests Board approval to submit an application for an $850,000, three-year Metro Community Planning and Development Grant.

This application represents one of two applications from the County for the Metro grant opportunity. In accordance with the Metro grant specifications, the County had to rank the applications in priority order. This application ranked second, with an application aligned with the A Home for Everyone goals ranking as first priority.

2. Please provide sufficient background information for the Board and the public to understand this issue. Please note which Program Offer this action affects and how it impacts the results.

The Metro Community Planning and Development Grant seeks to encourage good local planning leading to catalytic action plans, strategic plans and visioning plans that remove barriers to private investment in development, ready land for development and improve the livability of the region. The intent of Metro's Community Planning and Development Grants program is to support these efforts throughout the region. The grants are funded by a regional construction excise tax.

According to a recent AARP survey, at least 89% of adults aged 45 and older want to “age in place” as long as possible. Affordable, accessible and well-located housing is central to the quality of life for people of all ages, but is especially vital for older adults as physical and cognitive changes occur over the life course. Within the Portland metro area, the number of residents aged 65 and older will increase by 106% by 2030, compared to an increase of 34.6% in the region’s overall population. Our region’s existing housing stock lacks sufficient age-friendly features to meet the needs of our expanding aging population.

Although age-friendly approaches and best practices exist, designing and developing age-friendly housing is not common practice and lacks well-defined costs and benefits to assist planners, designers and developers in achieving age-friendly. Concurrently, communities are beginning to recognize that aging is a lifelong process and age-friendly design is not just “elderly-friendly”. In addition to enhancing personal and community vitality, age-friendly design catalyzes the local economy by enhancing the patronage of older adult consumers. This project proposes to integrate age-friendly and universal design principles to ensure that a person’s home is safe, accessible and enjoyable throughout the life course, for current and future residents. This approach would uniquely position the Portland metro region as a pioneer in the field and provides an opportunity to enhance regional competitiveness with respect to visionary development approaches.

Aligned with the October 2014 Multnomah County Board of Commissioners vote to join the World Health Organization/AARP Network for Age-friendly Cities and Communities, this proposed project strives to further the development of age-friendly housing in Multnomah County by developing agreed-upon guidelines to be implemented in the design and development of five housing types: single family, multi family, accessory dwellings, infill, and planned unit developments. As a part of the initiative, comparative developments will be monitored to ascertain the cost of age-friendly housing features. Age-friendly housing will be evaluated for cost and benefits, resulting in the development of a best practice guidebook for use in future developments. Beyond the guidebook, the project also strives to identify and implement policy and/or system changes to encourage the integration of age-friendly design principles into future housing developments and/or remodels. During the final phase of the grant, at least three distinct housing sites will be selected for design implementation to ensure wide-ranging impact.

While large in scope, the multipronged project aspires to create a comprehensive and complimentary approach to ensure short-term action with long-term sustainability and success beyond the grant period, catalyzing development opportunities in the Portland region and beyond, all in an effort to enhance livability and community well-being across the life course.

3. Explain the fiscal impact (current year and ongoing).

This grant will provide a total of $850,000 for three years, pending negotiations if awarded.

4. Explain any legal and/or policy issues involved.

N/A

5. Explain any citizen and/or other government participation that has or will take place.

The planning grant will involve the participation of community partners, community members and industry professionals. The grant proposes partnerships with PSU's Institute of Aging, Age-friendly Portland & Multnomah County Advisory Council, Age-friendly Portland & Multnomah County Housing Subcommittee, community development agencies, Portland Home Builders Association, AARP Oregon, Elders in Action, Asian Health & Services Center, community-residing older adults, key community stakeholders and industry experts.
