EXECUTIVE BUDGET MESSAGE April 7, 1993

Gladys McCoy, Multnomah County Chair

This is the 3rd budget since the passage of Ballot Measure 5. This Budget is critical from the standpoint of the County general fund because of:

- 1) the uncertainty of State impacts on local governments, uncertainty that results from the State's own challenge to fund education in a post-Measure 5 environment;
- 2) the expiration of two levies which need to be replaced;
- 3) a $7.9 million shortfall that must be faced at this time in the process;
- 4) a commitment to prevent our clients from becoming more dysfunctional which would require more resources;
- 5) an economy that has not kept pace with the growth in population which we serve.

We are transitioning from a line item to a program budget that more clearly shows what programs we are funding, for whom, and at what cost.

Each Manager was asked to define their budgets by programs, so the Board could determine if they are critical in value to their clients, and to separate program from administrative costs. The Managers prepared budgets to cover the cost of operating the existing programs at the same level of service they are now providing. Each Manager was given target figures which allowed for proportional sharing of the available revenue. Finally, each Manager proposed reductions to cover the difference between the full cost of operation and the target figures.

Programs were prioritized to determine which programs to hold harmless from potential cuts, and to determine what programs could be eliminated. The Citizen Budget Advisory Committees were an integral part of this process.

Several Board orders were passed aimed at reducing the shortfall, for example, the hiring freeze was extended, cuts were made in materials and services, and an effort was made to reduce the manager to staff ratio.

With limited success, we reviewed fees to determine where they might be increased above levels already included in the budget requests. We also reviewed possible consolidations or shifts of programs to other governments to determine potential savings to general fund dollars, again with limited success.

None of the above significantly reduced the shortfall. With my best judgment, I used the following criteria in developing this budget:

- 1) no new programs;
- 2) cutting whole programs when small cuts would mean unacceptable inefficiencies;
- 3) holding the library and jails harmless wherever possible;
- 4) continuation of revenue producing programs;
- 5) minimizing the impact on other jurisdictions;
- 6) maintaining mandated programs, for example ADA compliance construction; and
- 7) not backfilling lost State and Federal dollars.

We were not always able to satisfy even these criteria because of situations where one criterion conflicts with one or more of the others.

Let me just identify a few of the other decisions I made that did not enjoy extensive review during the budget work sessions:

- 1) I added an appropriation for repayment of 3rd party refinancing of Sheriff's Office equipment;
- 2) I added funding for the replacement of vans at the library;
- 3) I provided for construction to satisfy the requirements imposed by the Federal Americans with Disabilities Act.
- 4) I added funding for terminals at the library to meet the Americans with Disabilities Act Requirements;

Finally, because of the need to cover a number of costs in 93/94, I have chosen to reduce the general fund contingency for one year. The contingency level will be less than one half the amount historically recommended. This will require extreme managerial discipline and make it essential that the Board approve only those requests for emergency expenditures.

I sincerely appreciate the hard work, time and energy the Board, managers, staff, and citizens have made in the development of this executive budget. Let us go forward with a process which will produce an adopted budget that provides the best services we can for our citizens.

SUPPLEMENTAL RECOMMENDATION

8. Our C-BAC supports the (CPA) Council for Prostitution Alternatives, Inc. and we believe that the County Board should support it by funding $80,000. We recommend the following:

a. The County Board should ask the state for fees that were collected from prostitution charges and arrests to be allocated back to the County to support the CPA.

b. The County Board should set up a dedicated fund for fees that come from prostitution charges and arrests to help fund the CPA.

c. The CPA not only deals with corrections, but also with many other social programs. Forty three percent of the women at CPA are felon offenders and should be allocated sanction and service dollars from the state or from the Departments.

Respectfully submitted,

Dear Mr. Bray and Committee members,

There is an emergent budget crisis looming over the Council for Prostitution Alternatives and I am writing to request your immediate attention. Your decision and that of Tamara Holden, Department of Community Corrections, not to re-new our contract for fiscal year 1993-94 is one I hope you will review. On behalf of victim/survivors of prostitution, I urge you to consider the following:

- According to the Department of Community Corrections, CPA was deleted from contracted services next year because we do not fit within the sanctions and services guidelines of high risk and felon offenders. The notion that we serve only misdemeanants, I believe, is not correct. Our data shows that 43% of women in CPA's long term treatment were arrested or convicted of felony charges, while only 36% were misdemeanants and 21% had no criminal justice system contact. Clearly, we are working with a population of felon offenders.

- Our data also demonstrates that 74% of women in CPA had been incarcerated in the county or state jail system, that 47% had previously received alcohol and drug treatment, and 50% had received mental health services all to no avail. Neither incarceration nor traditional treatment provided an effective intervention to the revolving door of jail and/or incomplete treatment. Yet, an independent study of CPA documented that 80% of women who stay in our program longer than three months are permanently out of prostitution. That means they are no longer a problem to the criminal justice system either as felons or as misdemeanants.

- According to Tamara Holden, $302,000 needed to be recouped from a 19 million dollar DCC budget. Tragically and unfairly, CPA was disproportionately targeted as $80,000 is proposed to be taken from us. Transition Projects, another contractor with DCC, was offered a 15% cut in contracted services. For CPA, $80,000 is 43% of our entire budget ($310,000) for next fiscal year. In stunning contrast, the City and County are willing to spend $649,000 arresting and incarcerating prostituted women next fiscal year, but unable to invest in a program which has a proven record of returning women to the community in good standing.

- Under the leadership of Gladys McCoy since 1984, the City of Portland and Multnomah County have crafted a unique partnership; each have continued support for the Council for Prostitution Alternatives. That support has been built on the belief that public safety is the number one priority in Multnomah County. Prostituted women, as a class, are women whose public safety is practically non-existent: 78% are raped 46 times a year in Portland; 84% are assaulted 103 times a year in Portland; 49% are kidnapped ten times a year in Portland; 53% are tortured 54 times a year in Portland; 84% are pimped in Portland; 87% homeless in Portland. Without your continued backing what are these women to do?

_ There is an equally important issue of equity I feel needs to be addressed. On the one hand, Office of Women's Transition services has a budget over a million dollars and offers services to 150 women. CPA's total budget is less than a third that amount yet we provide outpatient services to twice as many women. Additionally, the issue of equity and gender is relevant as the majority of "serious felons" are men. If this guideline is adhered to, then women's programming in general will be curtailed.

- If CPA incurs a 43% cut, it will mean that instead of offering hope, motivation, safety, education, counseling, housing and many needed services to 382 victim/survivors of prostitution at a mere cost of $65 per woman per month, our services will be cut in half. CPA is also sustaining a $32,000 cut from the Community Action Program Office. Combined, the cuts would significantly de-stabilize our agency's effectiveness. The bitter irony is that by our own estimates, men spend nearly a million dollars each week in Portland buying the right to sexually abuse prostituted women.

Tarmara Holden reminded me that CPA is on an add-back list, meaning that if there is new money, then CPA will be in line to receive it. I thank you for that. But quite candidly, I take only cold comfort from it. Because of my year's of service to the community, I believe that the bottom line is that women's lives are worth more than a promise to fund them if and when there's money. Our agency has a proven record of effective interventions. We have saved lives and stopped further costs to the revolving door of the justice system because we take women permanently out of prostitution.

I am humbly requesting that you restore the entirety of CPA's budget or that at least you offer us a far smaller cut in contracted services. I understand that the County Board's budget deliberations are under considerable stress and will require hard decisions, but I feel it is important to air our concerns well ahead of the time County Executive McCoy releases her budget as this matter has grave forebodings for prostituted women and CPA.

Susan Kay Hunter

The Auditor's CBAC strongly recommends that the Multnomah County Board of Commissioners accept the budget recommended by Gary Blackmer, to retain staffing at current levels. After making cuts in materials, services and capital outlay the budget is still $16,000 shy of the Budget Office's target budget. The only way to reach this figure would be to cut one auditor position. The CBAC feels that this would be counter productive to Multnomah County's desire to fine tune the efficiency of all its departments.

The loss of one auditor position would allow for one less major audit per year, from five to four. Most of the performance audits produced by the Auditor's office have identified direct monetary benefits for the County. The following recent examples come to mind.

Business Income Tax (December 1991):

The audit identified $400,000 worth of annually uncollected business taxes. This audit also allowed for a one time revenue increase of approximately $4,000,000.

Management of Felons (August 1992):

Also, by increasing the daily number of offenders in the Forest Project Program to the actual capacity of that program the County was able to realize $130,000 in under-utilized County resources.

Financial Condition (January 1993):

Although the benefits of the audit did not provide direct financial gains for the County, it did provide a tool for such by putting the County's financial information into a useable format for the use of County officials, personnel and the public.

The Board of County Commissioners has been working on performance budgeting in order to measure the effectiveness of county programs and recommend efficiencies. The Auditor's office and the audits they produce will play an important role in gathering information for such performance budgeting.

In this post-Measure 5 climate of dwindling resources and the demand of citizens for increased accountability from government it would be a shame to limit one of the best tools the County has to accomplish these goals.

Dear Ms. Bozanich;

The Citizens Budget Advisory Committee (C-BAC) for the Department of Community Corrections has reviewed, concluded and solidified the Department's budget and strategic planning recommendations.

This C-BAC concluded that the Department's mission and current programs and services are slowly changing as we move into the 21st century. The mission and priorities must better reflect the communities' and citizens' concern of safety. Our deepest concern is the loss of 6 P.O.'s, the hiring of more Portland police officers and the new north police precinct that will provide an influx of offenders coming through the correctional system. It is this Chair's opinion that "the Department's current priorities and inability to be prepared for the increase of offenders will put a bigger crunch on the Multnomah County judicial system."

There are already hundreds of offenders on case bank and minimum supervision who are waiting to explode. The Department's current budget request does not allow the Department to maintain 6 P.O.'s. Our C-BAC found itself comparing the removal of 6 P.O.'s with the forest project which is under-utilized. Our C-BAC recommends the following:

1. The Department needs to continue to work on flattening administrative and management positions.
2. Fund 12 additional P.O.'s with sanctions and service dollars for intense surveillance programs. (However, it should be noted that these are not new P.O.'s but existing P.O.'s implementing sanction services who will carry a smaller case load than traditional P.O.'s).

Ms. Pat Bozanich

3. Our C-BAC supports the forest project but under the following guidelines:
  - a. Keep the beds filled
  - b. Implement a job placement/job referral service
  - c. Data on performance rate, (how many graduate and never commit crimes again).

Concerns and Questions

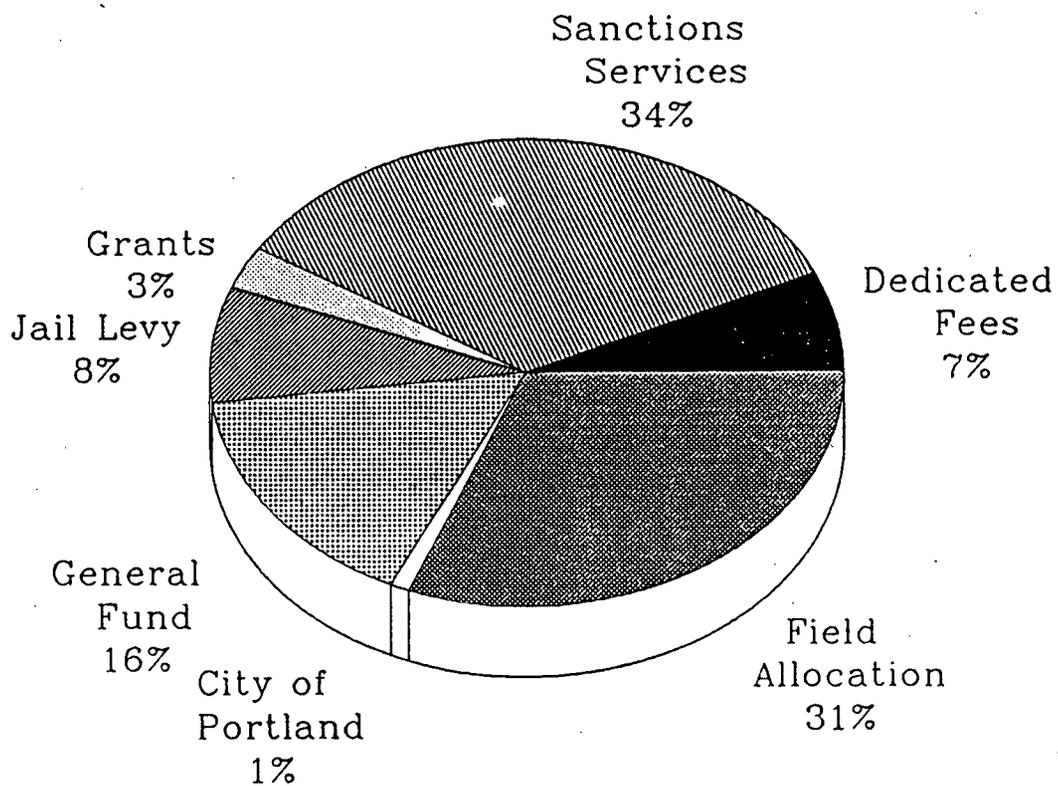

- a. Does this project alter criminal behavior?
  - b. After five years of service why is there still problems with filling the beds?
  - c. Why is the county using citizens' tax dollars for a project in Hood River instead of Multnomah County?
4. The Department should measure performance outcome for each program to be turned in with the budget.
  5. The Department needs to encourage staff to work more closely with the V.O.A. All branch managers should take the leadership role.
  6. All residential alcohol and drug treatment contracts should provide statistics annually on their conformance, recidivism and cultural diversity rate before recontracting with the county.
  7. Our C-BAC support the jail serial levy, but believe the Department should establish a reasonable budget over the next three years to operate the facility, rather than tax the citizens. (Also supported by the Central C-BAC) supervised by the County's Department of Community Corrections. To increase the available sanctions for probation violators, the Courts have begun encouraging non-jail sentences to MCRC and ISP.

Truly yours,

Increase Use of Forest Project

Most custody sanctions are at capacity

Exhibit 8 below shows that most of the custody sanctions were operated at or near their capacity in FY90-91. Some of these programs and facilities are also used by persons who are not sentenced felons. All the jail facilities - the Detention Center, Inverness 1, Courthouse Jail, and the Corrections Facility - operated at their capacity for FY90-91. Sheriff's Office managers attributed the 88% utilization at the Restitution Center to temporary closure of a floor because of repairs, and to a shortage of referrals when the inmate capacity of the facility was expanded to 110 during FY90-91. The Intensive Supervision Program and Alternative Community Service have no stated capacity levels. The Volunteers of America men's alcohol and drug treatment facility first began operations in FY90-91 and as a result did not operate at full capacity.

Forest Project Program was under-utilized

The Department of Community Corrections operates the Forest Project Program. In this program non-violent, male offenders are sent to a facility near Cascade Locks where they provide labor to improve and repair campgrounds, picnic sites, and forest trails. The program receives most of its referred offenders from judges and probation officers. The program was developed as an alternate to sending probation violators to
