Vice-Chair Kafoury moved and Commissioner Shiprack seconded approval of R-2.

Vice-Chair Kafoury made opening remarks. She discussed the ongoing work being done over a number of County departments and the recommendations made in the Work Group's. The recommendations they have provided today are based on six months evaluating how to provide those services more efficiently. There is widespread concern about the disproportionate numbers of children of ethnic families in the system, and the impacts that removal from the home have on these children. She found recommendation #4, the need for housing, to be the most compelling, and referenced the successes of the County's 30 Families in 30 Days program.

Mr. Burns reviewed the power point presentation and discussed the breakdown by cultural/racial group, disproportionate numbers based on ethnicity, the intent to expand more on prevention methodology, and the focus on defining the 58% of children in the category “threat of harm.”

Mr. Todd spoke of the goals of the work group and overview of work sessions. He said they created this work group to study the scope of services and find opportunities for collaboration. There are 97 departments that impact these children and a significant number of programs and places where the County and DHS intersect.

Ms. Butterfield spoke about the findings and recommendations, and emphasized the importance of addressing the disproportionate numbers and the services that are not available to families unless their children are removed. She reviewed current policies and procedures and the importance of supporting culturally-specific organizations and programs and linking families with those services

Mr. Todd said it’s imperative to look at a new way of distributing resources, identifying housing that could keep the families whole. Another key role is the importance of continuing to raise awareness and support community response to sex exploitation of children. He stated that the issues of child welfare are at the forefront at the County and their goal is to make sure these children and families are safe.

The Board discussed the reasons why there are so many children of color in the foster care system and the disparity seen in terms of resources, services, and how to address these disparities moving forward.

The Report was unanimously approved.
