MULTNOMAH COUNTY- MEASURE 47 IMPACT

The possible reduction in property tax revenues to the County ranges from $32 to $40 million.

$11 million can be saved from the '97-98 Budget by not providing new operating money for:

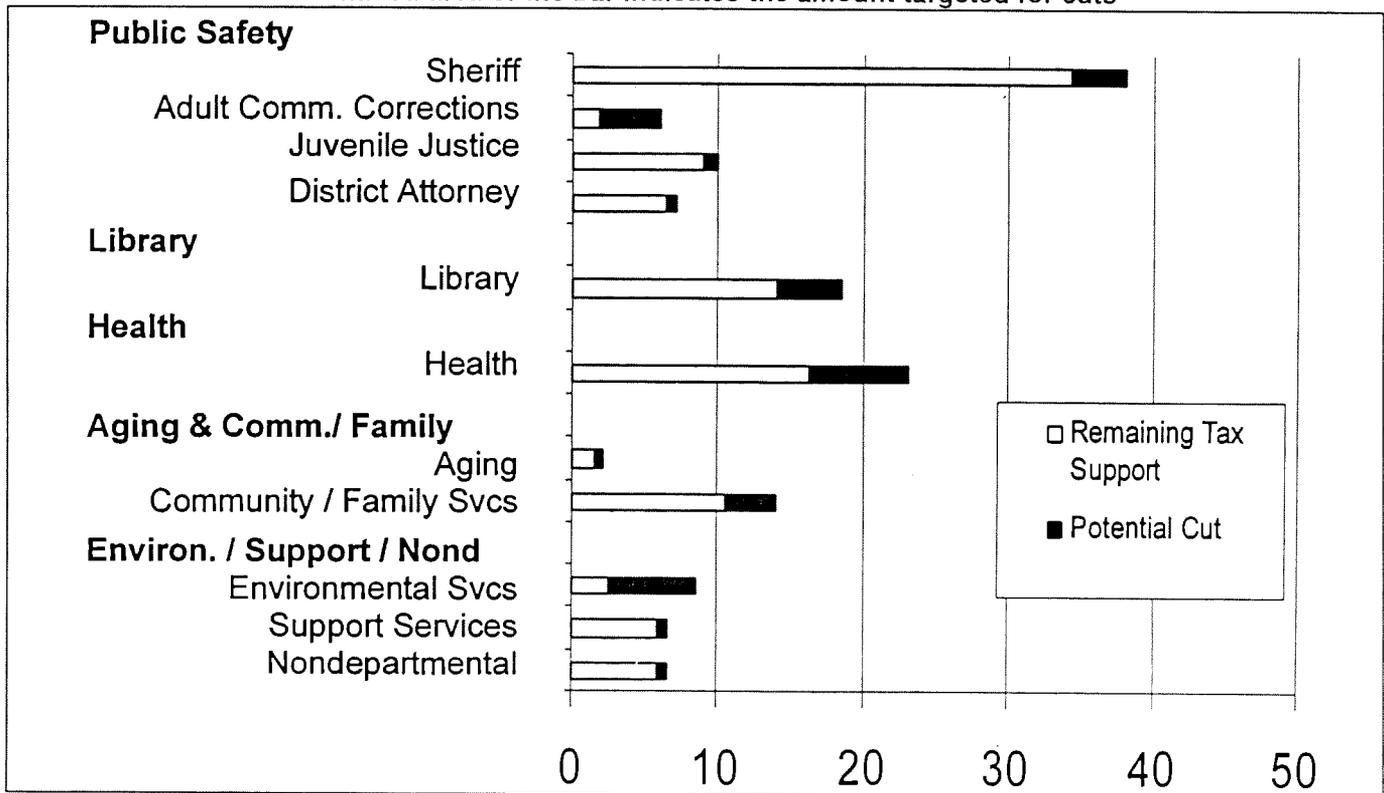

- A new jail, an alcohol and drug treatment facility, and expanded library hours (authorized by May, 1996 levies)
- New and expanded youth and family programs.

County departments will make approximately $30 million in service and operations cuts.

- This chart compares the amount of property taxes which goes to each County department and the targeted cut level proposed.
- There is significant uncertainty about the cut projections— State legislative decisions will dramatically affect revenue losses for local governments.

Property Tax Revenues and Targeted Cuts

Each bar below represents the amount of property taxes (in million dollars) supporting each County service area. The shaded area of the bar indicates the amount targeted for cuts

Measure

47 Fact Sheet

Measure 47 "Cuts and Caps" Property Taxes

Ballot Measure 47 was passed by the voters of Oregon on November 5, 1996. It amends the State Constitution and includes many provisions that change the way public services are funded including:

- Cutting 1997 - 98 property taxes (on a per property basis) to the 1994 - 95 level or 10% below the 1995 - 96 level, whichever is less,
- Capping future property tax increases at 3% per year.

The Oregon Legislature Must "Interpret" Measure 47

Measure 47 fails to define clearly the way in which it should be put into effect. As a result, the Oregon Legislature must pass laws to guide local governments in the implementation of the Measure. In addition, the Legislature must decide which local government services will now be funded by the State and how much money will be provided. The decisions of the State Legislature will have a tremendous impact on the level of services available in local communities. The following are some of the issues that the Legislature must decide:

How should the decrease in property tax revenue be divided between local governments?

Every property tax payment is divided into many pieces to support (at different levels) county government, school districts, city government and special districts. The proportional share that goes to each jurisdiction has been determined by voter-passed levies and tax bases. Measure 47 reduces the amount of each tax payment, but doesn't explain how that loss should be divided. This is complicated by the Measure's instructions to prioritize "public safety" and "public education."

- The Legislature's decision on tax distribution will affect which local services will suffer the largest cuts.

How should the reduction in property taxes be calculated?

The "cut" portion of Measure 47 ties individual tax payments in a future year to individual tax payments in a past year. The amount of the cut depends on which portions of the tax payment are considered in each of those years. Measure 47 clearly excludes tax payments for bonded indebtedness (the cost of constructing new school buildings for example) from the limits imposed on future years. It does not exclude those amounts from the past year (also known as the "base year") which serves as the basis for calculating the cut amount. Some legislators believe this is a "defect" in the Measure which should be fixed by passing a law excluding bonds from the base year calculation, thus becoming more restrictive than the Measure itself. Most estimates of revenue loss due to Measure 47 assume that taxes paid for bonds will not be included in the base year calculation.

- Including "bonds in the base year" will reduce the cuts needed in local services.

Which local services should receive State replacement funding?

Ballot Measure 47 will cut property tax funding for local services by about $1 billion around the State. Measure 47's sponsor stated in the Voters' Pamphlet that "100 percent of the reduction in property tax revenues can be made up from the State's abundance of State income tax and lottery dollars." Some legislators have indicated interest in providing replacement funding for some local services. The Governor has proposed providing some replacement funding for school districts but not for other local public services.

- The State Legislature will decide which local services receive replacement funding.

Will voters be able to choose to increase funding for local services?

Ballot Measure 47 provides a procedure for voters to increase property taxes. Sponsors of the Measure have stated it was their intention to provide this only for bond measures (new construction for example) and not for operating expenses. However, the plain meaning of the Measure would allow elections for either purpose. Using this provision would allow voters to pass "levies outside the limit" and thus increase support for local services. Some legislators have stated they will introduce laws to correct this "defect" and provide more restrictions than the measure itself. Others believe that new laws should clarify the voters' right to fund local services.

- The State Legislature will decide whether voters can control funding for local services by passing "levies outside the limit."

What other support will local government receive from the State?

Local governments are already required by State government to follow various state mandates. In some cases, some State funding is provided, in others local taxpayers must fund the mandates of State government. The State Legislature can help local governments reduce the cuts in local services by helping with the following issues:

- full implementation of vote by mail to reduce election expenditures
- remove requirement for physical appraisals of property every six years
- increase funding for the Oregon Health Plan
- not cutting other programs that support local government

Because there is a limited amount of money available to State Government, increased funding for some services will always result in cuts to other areas. The fundamental issue for the Legislature is finding a tax reform solution that reduces the over-reliance on property taxes and matches revenues to the need for State and local services.

- The State Legislature will decide how much to help local governments reduce the impact of local service reductions. The Legislature will decide whether or not to pursue tax reform.

Questions About Bonds and Levies and The Effects of Ballot Measure 47

Didn't voters just approve more money for libraries and jails? Why are there proposed budget cuts?

In May of 1996, Multnomah County voters overwhelmingly approved levy renewals for libraries and public safety that raised the level of property tax support for those County services. In November of 1996 Oregon voters approved Ballot Measure 47, a constitutional amendment that limits the amount of property tax that can be paid by each property in the state. The constitutional amendment effectively prohibits the full collection of taxes that the levies authorized.

Both the public safety and the library levies were renewals of existing levies that were expiring. In both cases the new levies were expected to produce more revenue than the old levies they replaced and thus fund new and expanded services. The cut imposed by Measure 47 will exceed the increase in the levies and thus prevents the collection of additional revenue which was expected to pay for operation of a new jail and increased library hours and services. The exact amount of budget cuts needed will not be known until the Oregon Legislature adopts laws to implement Ballot Measure 47.

Why is there money for construction but not operation?

At the same time that voters approved levies for libraries and public safety, they also approved bonds for construction and renovation of library and public safety facilities. Levies are used to pay operating costs. Bonds are used to pay capital costs.

Ballot Measure 47 restricts taxes that can go to operating costs, but it does not restrict taxes that pay for bonds that are used for capital or construction costs.

This presents several problems for Multnomah County. Voters have approved money to renovate and remodel library branches; however, some branches may have to close because of inadequate operating funds. Voters have approved money to build a new jail that may not be able to open.

Various options will be studied. A new jail facility may be less expensive to operate than an existing one. Final decisions on capital improvements to library branches will not be made until more is known regarding the availability of funds to operate the branches. The Board of County Commissioners will review all of the choices and receive public comment before any final decisions are reached.

Tough Choices: Multnomah County Responds to Measure 47

Ballot Measure 47, passed by Oregon Voters on November 5, 1996 will drastically reduce funding for local governments across the state. In June, the Multnomah County Board of County Commissioners will adopt it's first budget based on the reduced revenues. The following information is designed to assist citizens in providing input to these decisions.

Multnomah County Provides a Broad Range of Services

Transportation: Willamette River bridges and suburban roads

Health: Disease Control, Neighborhood Health, Primary Care Clinics, School Based Health Centers

County Budget Allows Limited Choices

Multnomah County 's budget includes money that comes from property taxes, business income taxes, the federal government, the state government, gas taxes, fees, hotel-motel taxes and other smaller sources.

Most of the money that the County receives is dedicated, that means it can only be spent on specific purposes. For example, gas tax money can only be spent on roads and bridges and most of the federal and state funds are designated for particular programs.

The general fund and levy funds are the part of the budget where the Board of County Commissioners can make choices about how money will be spent. This part of the budget totals about $250 million and property taxes make up $144 million of that total.

The chart below shows major county program areas and the amount of general and levy funding that each receives this year as well as the portion of that funding that comes from property taxes.

Measure 47 Requires Budget Cuts

For the 1996 - 97 fiscal year, Ballot Measure 47 is expected to reduce the amount of property tax revenue that the County will receive by $32 to $40 million. All of this amount must come from the general fund and levy funds.

Because the budget cuts for next year will be very severe, the County has made immediate reductions in order to accumulate approximately $6 million to ease the transition to lower service levels. Immediate cuts have included:

- reduction in library hours and services
- reduction in library purchase of materials and books
- closing the jail work crew annex
- elimination of funding for work release center
- reduction in administrative, clerical and support positions

In addition many new programs that were scheduled to start have been deferred including:

- Parkrose library partnership project
- expansion of neighborhood health programs
- expansion of parent child development programs
- expansion of mental health services to Head Start programs
- expanded services to combat child abuse and domestic violence

Now the County must identify the areas for the much larger service reductions which will take place July 1, 1997. The following areas represent likely possibilities for achieving the needed level of spending reductions:

- additional administrative reductions
- library branch closures or further reductions of hours
- closure of County health clinics
- delaying the opening of new jail facilities
- cuts in mental health services
- cuts in juvenile justice
- cuts in senior centers
- cuts in animal control
- cuts in capital improvements
- reduced supervision of offenders on parole and probation.

The County will look for ways to restructure service delivery in order to maintain or improve the quality of services while reducing expenditures. Across the board cuts that reduce the quality of all services are less desirable than targeted cuts which allow remaining services to be maintained at appropriate levels.

Citizen Input is Needed

All of these issues will be discussed with the community and debated by the Board of County Commissioners in the coming months. The County is very interested in receiving specific input from the community on the most appropriate service reduction strategy. Final decisions are expected in June.

It is very unlikely that severe cuts can be avoided this year. However the level of cuts will be affected by decisions made by the Oregon Legislature. In the long term, voter decisions on tax reform will continue to determine the level of services that local government can provide.

Citizens can provide input to the process of determining which services will be reduced. Here's how YOU can be involved:

- 1. Attend the Community Meetings (see schedule below)
- 2. Call or write your County Commissioners
- 3. Attend the County Budget Hearings which will be scheduled in May.
- 4. Call or write your State Legislators
- 5. Get involved in organizations supporting tax reform

Questions and Answers about Library Budget Cuts and Ballot Measure 47

Didn't voters just approve more money for Libraries? Why are there proposed budget cuts?

In May of 1996, Multnomah County voters overwhelmingly approved a Library Levy renewal that increased the level of property tax support for libraries. In November of 1996 Oregon voters approved Ballot Measure 47, a constitutional amendment that limits the amount of property tax that can be paid by each property in the state. The constitutional amendment effectively prohibits the full collection of taxes that the levy authorized.

There is uncertainty about the dollar amount of reduction to the library levy. The Oregon Legislature must adopt statutes to implement Ballot Measure 47 that will specify how the reduction in property tax paid is divided between the various governments (cities, counties, schools, special districts) that receive property tax money. Measure 47 says that "public safety" and "public education" should have "priority," but it doesn't say what that means.

Why are there different numbers being discussed for the proposed Library budget cut?

County Commissioners, the Library and the community are discussing potential cuts in the Library's 1997 - 98 budget. There are different ways to estimate what that budget would be, depending on various assumptions. For example, in the past levy collections have increased when real estate prices went up. The increase in real estate prices is impossible to accurately predict. Because voters increased the library levy, there are numbers that assume the "old levy" and others that assume the "new levy." Because Measure 47 ties future taxes to past taxes there is understandable confusion about which numbers should be used.

If Measure 47 had not passed, the Library budget for 1997 - 98 would probably have been about $25 million dollars. That amount includes about $1.4 million dollars for new programs paid for by the increase in the library levy. The proposed budget amount under discussion for the Library as a result of Measure 47 is about $18 million. Thus the cut is $7 million from what the budget would have been or $5.6 million from the cost of providing services at the previous level. About $1 million of this reduction is due to reduced fees as a result of reduced operations and the balance is due to cuts in property tax revenue.

How does the proposed Library budget cut compare with cuts to other county programs?

The overall cut for the County is estimated at $32 million to $40 million. Thus about 1/6 of the proposed cut affects the library and about 5/6 of the cut is from other areas of County government.

Do we know how large a budget cut is actually needed?

No, there is considerable uncertainty. The State Legislature must decide about distribution of property tax funds, priorities for tax funds, the formula to use for calculating tax reductions, whether to allow increases outside of the limits and whether and how much state replacement revenue will be provided for local services.

The estimate of a $32 million to $40 million reduction for the County is based on the best assumptions available at this time. Legislative (or judicial) actions could make big changes in this amount.

For example, there is uncertainty about the way in which the Measure 47 property tax reduction should be calculated. If the Legislature "includes bonds in the base year," the budget cut to Multnomah County will be reduced by $10 million.

Isn't it premature to be talking about budget cuts if we don't know how much money will be available?

No. The Chair's proposed budget must be presented in April. Budget cuts of the size required by Measure 47 will cause major reductions in many County services. It is important to have as much public input as possible regarding the choices that must be made on which services should be reduced.

What is the schedule for budget decisions?

- In January, February and March there will be community forums, board briefings and other discussions regarding the choices faced by the County.
- In April, Chair Beverly Stein will propose a budget for consideration by the Board of County Commissioners.
- In May and June the Board of County Commissioners will hold public hearings to receive testimony from citizens regarding the County Budget.
- Before July 1, the Board of County Commissioners must adopt a final budget for the 1997 - 98 fiscal year.

For decades, the Portland area has been the envy of the nation. The City of Portland and Multnomah County play a vital role in the economic and cultural lifeblood for the State's largest metropolitan area. Our diverse neighborhoods, beautiful open green spaces, vibrant downtown, accessible arts and high quality school systems make this City a great place to live and work.

But like many local jurisdictions in Oregon, the City of Portland and Multnomah County are facing difficult challenges. In the last few years, voters in Oregon have approved two property tax initiatives that have reduced funds cities, counties and school districts use to provide services. Ballot Measure 5, passed in 1990, forced local governments to fund existing services within the rate $10 of tax per $1,000 of valued property. In November 1996, voters approved Measure 47 which rolls property taxes back to what they were two years before and caps the rate of growth at 3%. As a result of Measure 47, the City will need to cut its budget by approximately $19 to $32.5 million. Multnomah County must cut its budget by $32 to 40 million.

The purpose of this mailer and survey is to help you understand how local governments are funded and to encourage your participation in helping the City and County make some difficult decisions about our future.

We need your help. The City and County are asking you to be our partner in sorting through these issues and to help plot the course for the upcoming years. You know what is important to your quality of life. We are preparing our 1997-98 budgets in the wake of Measure 47 and we want your priorities and ideas to help guide us as we make some difficult decisions on where to cut.

Measure 47 Impacts

Measure 47 is a constitutional amendment that dramatically changes funding for local governments. The Measure limits voter's ability to fund local services and nullifies the effect of previous votes on property tax levies. It transfers many decisions about local government services from voters to the State Legislature.

Measure 47 will provide substantial property tax relief. The average Portland homeowner's taxes will decline approximately $300 to $500 next year. Taxes on large commercial buildings will decline by tens of thousands of dollars.

In addition to reducing property taxes and restricting future property tax increases, the Measure has many other effects. It reduces citizens voting rights by counting those who don't bother to vote on tax increases as "no" votes in many elections. According to the Attorney General's opinion, it will require votes to increase library fines, park recreation fees and many other miscellaneous fees for public services. And, it will lock in place the recent tax shift that increased the share of property taxes paid on homes and decreased the share paid by commercial property owners.

Now, the Oregon Legislature will be tackling tough issues as they try to clarify language and decide how the measure will be implemented. Key issues include the allocation formula, or how the revenue is shared among governments, the definition of terms such as "prioritization," "public safety," and "public education," procedures for voting on fees and bonded indebtedness, what "minimizing the loss of local control" means, and how new construction, annexations and rezoning will be treated. While the sponsor of the Measure stated in the Voter's Pamphlet that the State Legislature should replace 100% of local government revenue lost, that outcome seems very unlikely.

The City and County will not be able to wait for these clarifications before we are required to implement the reductions in our budgets. We will be making some assumptions as we move through the budget process, understanding that additional cuts may have to be made to balance our budgets when legislative decisions and clarifications are made.

Multnomah County— Services At A Glance

Multnomah County delivers many services to county residents: Jails, family centers, disease control, libraries, Willamette River bridges, primary health care clinics, child development centers, support for the developmentally disabled, district attorney, suburban roads, mental health services, school-based health centers, aging services, adult care home regulation, assessment and taxation, elections, community corrections (parole and probation), alcohol and drug treatment, animal control, juvenile justice and much more.

In 1996, voters overwhelmingly renewed and increased serial levies to provide funding to operate County libraries and jails. The increased funding was targeted to keep libraries open longer and to staff additional jail beds to prevent the early release of offenders. By restricting the amount of property tax that can be collected, Measure 47 has effectively nullified the results of these votes.

In addition, statewide voters passed Measure 11 in 1994 that increases sentences for many crimes and sends more juvenile offenders to adult courts. This has dramatically increased the demand for services in the local public safety system at a time when funds are dropping.

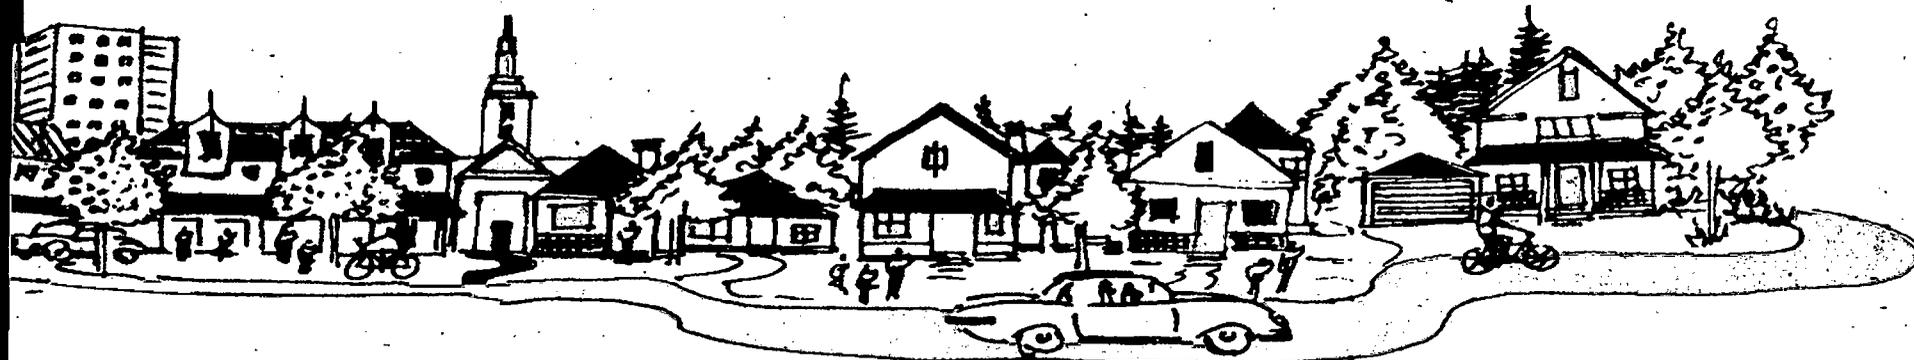

City Of Portland— Services At A Glance

What services does the City provide to the residents of Portland? Police, fire fighting, emergency medical, repair and maintenance of city streets, water, sewer, building permits, traffic signals, parks, business development, 9-1-1, arts, recreation programs, street cleaning, community planning, street lights, stormwater disposal, transit planning, recycling, sidewalks, waste water treatment, neighborhood associations, environment and watershed protection, public golf courses, parking garages and meters, noise control, abandoned autos...and the list goes on.

The City has stewardship over 9,600 acres of land, 3,557 miles of improved streets, 125,000 sewer connections, 45,000 street lights, 1,800 miles of water lines serving one-third of Oregon's population...it's a big responsibility, one we take very seriously. The public investment made to date is significant and we are doing everything we can to preserve your investment.

But, after years of use, these public works...your streets, sewers, water lines, parks and facilities...are placing significant demands on our ability to maintain and improve them.

Add to that the stricter mandates on water and air quality, tougher earthquake building codes, growing population, a larger service area due to annexation and new demands on the system, inclement weather (floods, wind, snow and ice storms) that has done considerable damage to our infrastructure — no one could argue it's not a challenge. Now, we need to cut services to match reduced revenues under Measure 47. We are faced with some difficult choices as we try to maintain our quality of life.

The City and County Checkbooks...Always Balanced

There are no credit cards to pay for government services; we must live within our means...despite the increasing demand for service from a fast-growing population base and the decreased availability of revenues to pay for such services.

The City and the County use two checkbooks, dedicated and discretionary. As you might guess, dedicated funds can only be used for certain services. For example, water revenues can only be used for water services. Gas tax and sewer fees are also dedicated, and most Federal and State funds are designated for particular programs that the Congress or the State Legislature has decided to fund. The County and City are prohibited by law from spending those funds on anything other than those specific programs.

Nearly 80 percent of the City's total budget is supported by dedicated funds. Most of the money the County receives are dedicated funds as well.

Discretionary funds come from property tax revenues, business licenses, utility franchises, hotel/motel taxes and other fees. Only $249 million of the City's $1.27 billion total city budget is discretionary. Of these funds, 55% are used to support police and fire service. The balance pays for parks, administration, economic development, neighborhood organization, arts, street lighting, energy, and some for transportation as a result of the lack of State gas tax increase in four years.

In addition, the City has the unique responsibility to fund the pensions and disability payments of our police and fire personnel. This requirement is funded by a property tax levy that was also cut by Measure 47. The City must replace this cut, $12 million the first year, by using existing general fund resources.

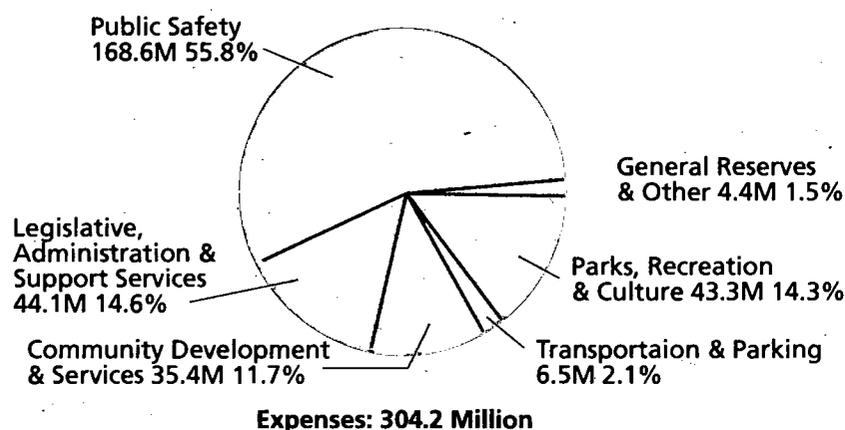

Multnomah County's general fund and levy funds are the part of the budget where the Board of County Commissioners can make choices about how the money will be spent. This part of the budget totals about $250 million out of a $800 million total budget. Property taxes make up $144 million of that total. More than 60% of that discretionary spending goes to public safety, libraries and health programs.

The City will lose about $19 to $32.5 million from its discretionary checkbook and the County about $32 to $40 million. All cuts in services must be made from programs supported by the discretionary checkbook.

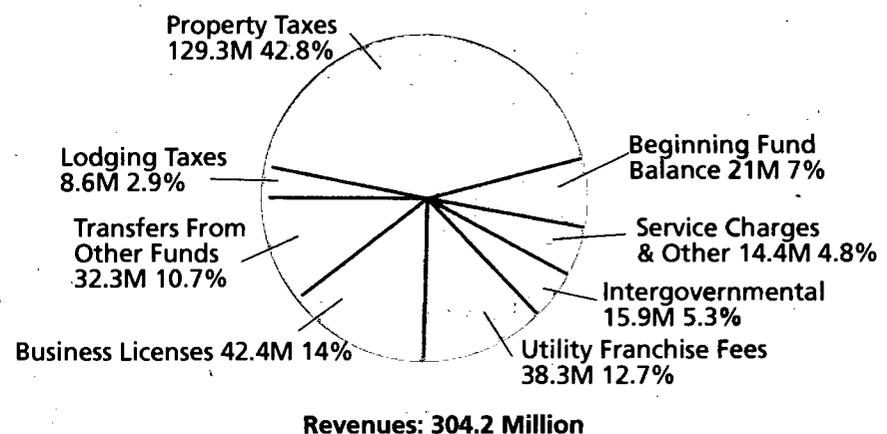

Here's How the Discretionary Checkbook Balances Out:

Where Do We Go From Here?

Both the City and the County have made great strides to improve efficiency and reduce costs. With those efficiency savings, we have expanded services to meet the needs of our growing community.

As we prepare our budgets for next year, the City of Portland and Multnomah County must cut spending to meet the revenue reductions imposed by Measure 47. Both governments have taken steps in the current fiscal year, ending June 30, to begin to meet the challenges created by Measure 47.

The City has taken several actions already to deal with the impacts including:

- Instituted restricted hiring with exceptions for critical positions. This is expected to generate about $10 million in savings.
- New programs scheduled to start January 1, 1997 have been cancelled including civilianization of desk positions in the Police Bureau, expansion of arts in education and neighborhood arts programs, expansion of funding for neighborhood coalitions, initiation of a "jobs" initiative through PDC, and initiation of a neighborhood grants program. This is expected to generate about $1.4 million in savings.

- Review and evaluation of all capital construction projects approved in the 96-97 budget but not yet started. It is anticipated that certain capital projects will be deferred or eliminated, particularly if they do not lead to a decrease in operating costs.

The County has made immediate reductions to ease the transitions to lower service levels. They include:

- Reduction in library hours and services
- Reduction in library purchase of materials and books
- Closing the jail work crew annex
- Elimination of funding for work release center
- Reduction in administrative, clerical and support positions
- New programs scheduled to start have been deferred including Parkrose library partnership project, and the expansion of neighborhood health programs, parent child development programs, mental health services to Head Start programs and services to combat child abuse and domestic violence

Even with efficiencies, reduction in overhead and administration and program delays, there will still be significant cuts in service needed in order to balance both the City and County budgets. Now we must identify the areas for much larger reductions which will take effect July 1, 1997.

Budget Cut Choices Are Limited

The size of the needed budget cuts and the fact that they all must come from discretionary, General Fund spending limits the options available. Multnomah

County has identified the following areas as the most likely possibilities for achieving the needed level of spending reductions:

- additional administrative reductions
- library branch closures or further reduction of hours
- closure of County health clinics
- delaying the opening of new jail facilities
- cuts in mental health services
- cuts in juvenile justice
- cuts in animal control
- cuts in capital improvements
- reduced supervision of offenders on parole and probations.

In the pull-out survey, you will find a list of City services that are discretionary and paid for in part or fully by general fund resources. The cuts must come from police, fire, planning, parks, central administration and other general fund supported services. Over 55% of discretionary resources are used to cover police and fire services.

Speak Up

Public services are important to all of us, but budget cuts must be made. We need your interest, the love of your community and your good ideas. We are asking help to determine where service cuts might be made. Each decision has its own set of trade-offs and we want to know what's important to you.

We've made it easy to be involved with eight joint City/County community workshops where you can bring your ideas and concerns and discuss the issues with City and County Commissioners and service managers.

The City of Portland has also developed a worksheet/survey to help prioritize your ideas into a workable tool the City Council can use during the budget process this year. If there is not one enclosed, please call 823-4519 and we'll send one to you. Please return your survey to us by February 15.

You can participate in City and County budget hearings held this spring. After these hearings, your elected officials will be making final budget decisions. You can find out the schedule of budget hearings by calling the Mayor's office at 823-4120 and the County Chair's office at 248-3308.

Our community faces some tough challenges ahead. We need your help. With you as our partner, we can keep Portland the best place to live, work and play. Let us hear from you!
