NORTHSTAR HOUSE

To expand recovery opportunities for all citizens in Oregon with mental illness, Multnomah NAMI has partnered with the International Center for Clubhouse Development (ICCD) to launch an ICCD certified clubhouse in Portland. ICCD certified clubhouses incorporate a proven model for psychosocial and vocational rehabilitation that centers on meaningful work, work-mediated relationships, and social and recreational opportunities that are normalized around the work day. First introduced in 1948 at the renowned Fountain House in New York City, the clubhouse model has been implemented in 400 communities in 28 countries throughout the world. Its success has stood the test of time; the clubhouse model is the oldest, on-going vocational rehabilitation program in existence. The NORTHSTAR would be the first ICCD certified clubhouse in the state of Oregon.

What sets clubhouses apart from other services is the way members participate and the social/vocational orientation of the program. The clubhouse approach is based on members and staff working side by side to accomplish the collective goals of the clubhouse. These goals include opportunities for members to develop work-related interests and skills, participate in meaningful social experiences, expand their education, link with other community resources, and contribute their individual talents and gifts. Clubhouses offer those with mental illness a place and a program where the focus is on ability, not disability. At clubhouses, members experience themselves as valued contributors who are wanted, needed and appreciated. This is a deeply needed resource in the state of Oregon.

The impacts of clubhouses are evident in the improved communities and lives of individuals where clubhouses exist.

- ❖ Higher Employment – Studies have shown that the clubhouse model of vocational rehabilitation produces higher rates of employment, longer job tenure, and higher earnings than other programs offered for people with mental illness.
- ❖ Reduced Hospitalization – Clubhouse membership has been linked to a reduced number of hospitalizations. In one study, the number of hospitalizations of members was reduced by one-third and the average number of hospital days was reduced by 70%.
- ❖ Reduced Incarcerations – Another study found that involvement in the criminal justice system diminished substantially during and after clubhouse membership.
- ❖ Improved Wellness – In an evaluation of a structured exercise program at an ICCD certified clubhouse, members were found to have had significant improvements in aerobic and mental health and perceived improvements in their physical and social functioning.
- ❖ Reduced Cost of Services – Clubhouses have been found to cost less than other models of service delivery, one-third the cost of the Individual Placement Services (IPS) model, about half the annual cost of community mental health centers and substantially less than the Assertive Community Treatment (ACT) model.

The International Center for Clubhouse Development is a global network creating opportunities for people living with mental illness to be respected members of society.

ICCD clubhouses are founded on the realization that recovery from serious mental illness must involve the whole person in a vital and culturally sensitive community. A clubhouse community offers respect, hope, mutuality and unlimited opportunity to access the same worlds of friendship, housing, education and employment as the rest of society.

In pursuit of this mission, the center promotes the development and strengthening of clubhouses; oversees the creation and evolution of standards; facilitates and assures the quality of training, consultation, certification, research and advocacy; and provides effective communication and dissemination of information.

The International Clubhouse Community

Everyday throughout the world, people with mental illness face the enormous challenge of living with a condition that has interrupted their lives and often stolen their hopes and dreams. In every country, every city, and every town there are people with mental illness.

For many years these individuals had systematically been denied the opportunities due them as citizens in their communities, and were relegated to the margins of society. In recent years, with the advent of improved psychiatric treatment options and rapidly developing community mental health systems, this situation has gradually begun to change. We are finally coming to understand that people with mental illness can, live, work, and participate in their community -- just as any other citizen can.

In New York City in 1948, a small group of people who had been recently discharged from a state psychiatric hospital joined together to create a group known as "We Are Not Alone", or WANA. WANA was a self-help organization that later evolved into a highly successful and innovative community based program for assisting people with mental illness re-claim their lost lives and aspirations. In the early 1950's WANA with the help of a few dedicated volunteers purchased a building and re-named their organization "Fountain House".

Fountain House is still vibrant and growing today, and is widely recognized as a beacon of light, leading the way to recreating mental health systems throughout the world. The Fountain House program has become the template for the "Clubhouse Model" of psychiatric rehabilitation, now flourishing around the globe.

Today there are more than three hundred clubhouse programs operating in 24 countries around the world. A clubhouse is comprehensive center of support and encouragement for its members (people with mental illness). Over the years Fountain House along with all of the clubhouses modeled after it, have continuously demonstrated that people with mental illness can successfully live and work in the community. Key to this success is an environment of support, acceptance, and commitment to the potential contribution and success of each individual regardless of the severity of his or her illness. Clubhouses are places to which people can "belong" as contributing adults, rather than as full-time "patients" who are there only to be "treated". The clubhouse is a place in which members and staff works side by side in all aspects of the days work.

Clubhouse also offer an array of specific services from which members can choose as their needs and life goals indicate. Members can take advantage of daytime programming, vocational rehabilitation, employment opportunities, housing support services, case management, social and recreational programs, supported education, advocacy and crisis response services.

In March 1994, the International Center for Clubhouse Development (ICCD) was created to serve and represent the rapidly growing and dynamic clubhouse community. The vision of the ICCD is that men and women with mental illness throughout the world will have access to the respect and dignity offered by clubhouses, and to the full range of clubhouse opportunities, as they rebuild their lives.

The mission of the ICCD is to promote and protect the rights, opportunities and future of psychiatrically disabled men and women who are members of clubhouses all over the world. Today, as mental health services delivery systems around the world are facing new crises, the ICCD is here to insist on a future with respect and opportunity for those who have been denied them for too long.

WHAT IS MENTAL ILLNESS?

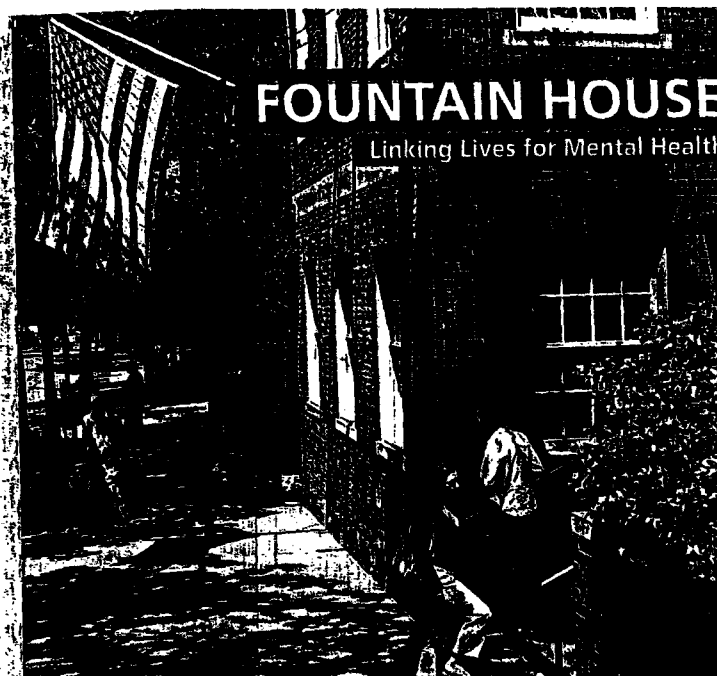

Mental illness is biologically and environmentally based, and affects the brain. It strikes more than 5 million adolescents and adults each year in the U.S. alone (1), regardless of their race, religion, family backgrounds, or income. When it is severe and persistent, it undermines an individual's thinking, feelings, and moods, the ability to relate to others, and the capacity to cope with life's everyday demands.

People can regain their mental health. But not with medication alone. Today, it is increasingly recognized that an individual can recover and rejoin society — can live with the disability, return to school, take a job, find a home, enjoy friends again — through a combination of medication, community support services, and relationships that ease the way from isolation to full participation in life.

Fountain House is a pioneer in providing services to support recovery. For more than a half-century, Fountain House has created and operated projects to serve men and women returning to mental health — programs that focus on members' strengths and talents; that encourage their growth with vocational, residential, educational, health, and community services; and that lead to, and build on, their successes. Today, Fountain House members and staff continue and expand these programs, linking lives for mental health.

THE WORK OF FOUNTAIN HOUSE

Fountain House's programs and partnerships originate in its units. Each unit is "home-base" for a number of members and staff, who work together to develop and operate a particular activity. In each unit, as well, staff members provide community support for members, to ensure that they receive the benefits and services they need, from both Fountain House and beyond.

Members volunteer their work, to make Fountain House work. Together, members and staff are able to derive a sense of accomplishment, build skills, and establish relationships, helping everyone to know that they are needed and appreciated.

Employment helps members prepare for and secure paying jobs throughout the city. Transitional Employment (TE) trains and places them at almost 30 participating companies. For members seeking permanent jobs, Supported and Independent Employment offers guidance, coaching, and on-the-job support.

Education supports members to enter college, vocational school, and high school equivalency programs. In addition, qualified members conduct for-credit courses at Fountain House, teach and tutor several subjects, and run literacy programs. Scholarships and financial assistance are available.

Housing helps some 400 members live comfortably and affordably — in their own apartments with home assistance or in Fountain House-supervised residences with 24-hour staff support. Wherever members live, emergency help is always available.

The First Floor staffs the Reception Desk, to welcome members and visitors, and operates the mail, supply and coat rooms. The unit is also home to the Membership Committee, and provides orientation to all new members and staff.

Clerical operates the Fountain House switchboard, publishes its newspaper and bulletins, and handles large mailings and copy jobs. It is the home of the Active Reachout group, which helps keep members in touch with Fountain House.

Horticulture maintains Fountain House's four gardens, provides plant and flower arrangements throughout the building, and creates floral decorations for special events. The unit also serves as liaison between the Fountain House building and High Point.

Dining Services plans, prepares and serves some 300 meals a day, with emphasis on supporting good health. Partially subsidized by Fountain House, these meals offer members financial relief as well as relaxing moments for socializing.

Research documents and studies members' participation in Fountain House's programs and services, and assesses members' evolving needs. Its data have long served organizations and government agencies concerned with mental health.

Complementary Services

Young Adults Services: Mental illness strikes many people when they are high school and college age. Today, Fountain House, through its Young Adults Services, is placing increasing emphasis on seeking out young men and women in the early stages of their illness, helping them recognize and come to terms with it, and integrating them into the work of Fountain House. Combining state-of-the-art medication and Fountain House's support services, this innovative program is in the process of being replicated internationally.

Evening and Weekend conducts a variety of social, cultural, sports and recreational programs — both within Fountain House and, increasingly, in the community — to help members enjoy new activities and build friendships.

Advocacy and Community Education educates and empowers members to speak out on mental-health issues. Presentations — for example, to police, medical schools and groups, family members, and friends — help to reduce misconceptions about individuals with mental illness.

Substance Abuse Initiative aids members with histories of both mental illness and substance abuse. It sponsors

Double Trouble 12-step meetings, dealing with both conditions; offers educational programs for members and staff; and advises on appropriate community resources.

Fountain Gallery is an artists' cooperative. Member artists operate it, share proceeds from sales, and, in the process, help to challenge stigma about individuals with mental illness. Fountain Gallery is located at 702 Ninth Avenue (48th Street). Visit www.fountaingallerynyc.com

High Point is a working tree and alpaca farm, operated with the help of members. Located on 477 acres in New Jersey, it is an extension of Fountain House's work day program, and offers additional ways for members and staff to work and relax together.

Training in the Clubhouse concept: The Fountain House model is promoted and communicated around the world by the International Center for Clubhouse Development. Fountain House, an ICCD partner, is one of its nine international training bases.

HEALTH FOR THE WHOLE PERSON: Promoting members' overall wellness, Fountain House offers primary medical care and other programs focusing on healthy living.

BECOMING A MEMBER

Potential members find Fountain House most often via referral — from an existing member, a mental health center or related program, a hospital, a friend. Applicants are interviewed by Fountain House's Membership Committee, made up of members and staff, and are invited to take a tour, to see Fountain House and its philosophy in action. Finally, the committee reviews the applications, and makes its decisions.
